The rainy weather of last week has set back field operations considerable thruout this section and farmers are hopefully looking forward to a prolonged seige of good weather. With so much plowing to be done the farmers will be able to use about two months of solid good weather. Here's hoping they get it.

The dance to be held at Walum last Thursday was for various reasons postponed until last night. However everyone seemed to have learned of the postponement and the attendance last night was very good.

Mr. Wm. Anderson and family have moved into the house owned by Chas. Weisman. This was the last vacant house in town. Looks like a few houses ought to be built for tenant purposes and it might be a good plan to extend the city limits so the present congested traffic conditions would be remedied. Just a little elbow room please.

The funeral of Andrew Hanson of Cumberland, Wis., who died while boarding a Great Northern train at Hannaford was held from St. Olaf's Norwegian Lutheran Church at Walum Thursday noon. The only relative present was Andrew Fogderud a cousin of the deceased. Burial being made in the church yard cemetery.
