

Walum News Notes

Henry Lewis came around Tuesday morning with that broad genial smile across his face and when asked what it was that tickled him, that deep crimson showed up and he called the boys up for a smoke announcing: "It's a boy." We are glad to learn that both Henry, Jr., and mother are doing nicely.

E. W. Everson left last Tuesday for Carpio, N. D., to attend a meeting of the N. D. Total Abstiners Association. He went with J. Arnold, an active temperance worker and editor of the N. D. Standard. They made the trip by auto.

The Old Settlers picnic at the Ericson grove last Tuesday was fairly well represented from this section.

Miss Clara Rasmussen was at Hanaford last Tuesday between trains.

Andrew Fogderud returned from Fargo Wednesday where he had been as a delegate to represent St. Olaf congregation at the yearly meeting of the United Lutheran church.

Mrs. Ben C. Stromme left Friday for a visit with friends and relatives at Lake Park, Minn.

Miss Florence Werner returned to her home at Minneapolis Saturday after having spent the past two weeks visiting relatives here and at Dazey.

Andrew Wogsland and family took in the Stock Show at Dazey Monday.

Wm. C. Coates was at New Rockford the first part of last week with the Non-partisan League speakers.
