

interesting stories in the May Thrift Talk. In homely phrases "Poor Richard" tells how to get rich. That is the common desire and if one will follow the precepts of the author there will be little to worry about in the future. "Teaching the Young to Resist Tendency to Spend" is an article every parent should read. It relates the rather novel plan adopted by one father to develop resisting powers in his boys.

"How to Draw a Check" contains much good advice and even one who has done business with a bank for many years may read it with profit. The story of Emma Summers who advanced in a few years from the ranks of a music teacher to the millionaire class is interesting; the terrible waste going on every day in many channels is shown in "Our Chief National Sin;" and some interesting anecdotes relating to well known financiers is found under the caption "Not All Play for Millionaires."

Walum News Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Wallum arrived last Monday from New England, where they have been the past six weeks. They expect to remain in this locality now for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Nic Swenson came up from Valley City last Monday and went out to their farm.

W. H. Stutsman, president of the railroad and warehouse commission, was here last Monday making settlement with the ticket holders of the N. D. Grain Co. which failed some time ago. Settlement was made in full with all ticketholders. Many of the farmers were glad to receive payment as they once figured their holdings a total loss.

Harvey Rasmussen came down from Glenfield Monday for visit with his folks here.

Miss Anna Tyssen returned to Jessie Monday after having spent Easter with the Hovland's.

Arvie Wunderlich went to Cooperstown Tuesday where he will remain a few days after which he will go to McHenry to take up a position with an auto concern.

Miss Rose Harris and mother returned to their home at Killdeer Tuesday.

Andrew Nelson was at Hannaford between trains Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Wallum returned home Thursday from Fargo. Miss Clara Rasmussen left Friday night for Minneapolis where she will seek medical aid. She has been suffering from a mild attack of appendicitis, and it is thought that possibly an operation might be necessary; however we hope not. She was accompanied by her father.

Theo. Rasmussen autoed to Cooperstown Friday afternoon and reports the roads in good condition for motoring.

A Clean-Up Call

Community dirt, ugliness and danger are community contributions. Let's get together for a clean-up day. Every community is just what the majority of the people who compose it are willing that it shall be. The majority of the people of this community want it to be clean, bright and attractive. Get in line now to make this town the cleanest and safest place in the state. If you feel this way about it, get busy with your own premises NOW.

Clean up and put in proper receptacles for removal all dirt and rubbish of every kind.

Remove manure at once, or if needed for fertilizer, spade or plow under without delay.

Don't forget: NO MANURE—NO FLIES. Flies breed disease and death. Stables, outhouses and manure receptacles should be screened.

Property is worth more in a clean community than it is in a dirty community.

Let's get together to make property in this town—your community—worth more money. Let's work for protection, safety, health and happiness.

Dr. C. L. BRIMM
County Superintendent of Public Health.
