
Mrs. Angus' Brother and Wife Dies

The following item is taken from the Melrose Beacon, and reports the death of Mrs. William Angus' brother. Since this notice was printed, word has been received that Dr. Campbell's wife has also died from the same causes as her husband. Mrs. Angus is at present at Melrose.

Melrose, Minn., Beacon: This city was deeply saddened yesterday morning when report of the death of Dr. Claude Campbell, son of Dr. J. E. Campbell of this city came. Death occurred at Glencoe from pneumonia following influenza.

Dr. Claude Campbell had recently enlisted in the medical corps of the army and left Decorah, Ia., where he has been practicing the past number of years, several weeks ago, and with his wife was visiting with her folks at Glencoe when he was taken ill with influenza. He was to report at Ft. Riley, Kansas, on Oct. 15, and he had been given the rank of captain. Mrs. Campbell is also ill with pneumonia.

D. Claude Campbell after graduation practiced at Starbuck and also was associated with his father here. He has been at Decorah, Ia., the past three years. Dr. J. E. Campbell left Tuesday morning for Glencoe and was at his bedside when death occurred.
