

It will be remembered that John Dahl moved to Montana with his family a little over a year ago. He is back here for harvest and threshing and tells us that his section of the state is entirely dried out, not even raising grass for the stock.