

Ludvig Hareland's oldest girl was quite badly injured last Tuesday evening while assisting with the haying. She was walking behind the team hitched to the hay fork when the evener broke, one piece flying back and hitting the little girl on the lower jaw. The shock rendered her unconscious for a long time. She was taken to town and given medical attention by Dr. Benson, and later the same evening removed to Fargo for further care at the hospital.