

Matt Haugen, of the Standard Oil Co., met with a painful accident last Wednesday. He was in the act of cranking the oil truck when in some way he slipped and his whole weight came unto his arm with the result that the bone was broken at the elbow. The accident is a very painful one, and he may not regain the use of his right arm for a couple of months.