

Chas. Ross is complaining of a lame back.

The Misses Kunze left Saturday for Fargo for a few days' visit.

Joe Griesinger and Mr. Nile are building a granary on Mr. Ose's farm.

Ole Kravig spent Sunday in Cooperstown—that is, he said he did, but the editor is in doubt.

Mrs. Errel Lemmon and Mrs. Joe Greisinger were shopping in Hannaford between trains Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jackson and little son spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kalendar.

Joe Griesinger has built a nice new porch on the front of his residence in East Karnak.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Houghton are the proud parents of a fine baby boy born Sunday morning.

Mrs. Ray Laastad and children and Miss Anna Kaastad were shopping in Cooperstown Saturday.

J. A. Carlson and J. J. Hogness drove to Cooperstown Friday to deliver the registration cards to the county board.

Mrs. Errel Lemmon left Tuesday for her home in Wisconsin. Her husband will remain until the threshing is done.

Threshing is under way and to date cars are plentiful. Twenty-three cars have been shipped from Karnak the past week.

Dave Freeman drove to Dazey Monday to consult a doctor. Dave has been suffering from the effects of sunstroke received during harvest time.

Great Northern train No. 2 stopped at Karnak Tuesday night for Mrs. Cal Ross, who went to Fargo for an operation. Mr. Ross returned Thursday morning.

Jacob Selgel's little son William was lost three hours Sunday causing quite a bit of excitement in Karnak and a great deal of anxiety to his parents. The boy was found, however, by Chas. Ross, in Mr. Selgel's pasture. He had no doubt wandered away from home and had probably taken a nap in the high grass as he was none the worse for his experience.
