

In a letter to the editor from Soren Krag, now in France, he states that one of the things the soldiers enjoy most is to get letters from home. Everyone who has a friend or relative in war service should make a point of writing to them regularly. Don't wait to get letters from them. A soldier in the trenches cannot always write letters very conveniently, but he sure appreciates getting them. Please write to the boys; all it costs you is a little time and it helps to cheer them up who are so far from home. If you have no one in the service, get the address from someone who has, and write whether you are well acquainted with the soldier you write to or not. The main thing is to write, and write cheerful letters. Soren's address is Private Soren L. Krag, Amb. Co. 128, 107 Sanitary Train, A. E. F. via New York.
