

Soren Krag in a letter to the editor under date of August 13, says: "I have seen quite a bit of service at the front, and have seen more than I expected. We see things here that are not written about in the papers or magazines. I only hope that it won't last so much longer." Evidently Soren has seen service near Chateau Thierry, as in one letter to a Hannaford friend he stated that he had visited the place where Lieutenant Roosevelt fell.
