

There Are No Pro-Germans There

Lewis Thune of De Lemere, N. D., now in France, writes his mother that, "There are no pro-Germans over here. I see that the casualty lists are beginning to appear in American papers. Perhaps some of the pacifists and pro-Germans are beginning to realize that we are in it. Maybe some of them will shut up now.

"In a town a few kilometers from here is a hospital filled with children who have passed through German hands. They are minus eyes or fingers and a few other things unmentionable.

"The American Indian at his worst was a mere novice compared to the 'kultured' Bosche.

"A few sights like this and our men put a lot of pep into the bayonet drill.

"God pity Germany. We can't."
