

Word was received last week by Martin Wallum that his son Chester had been wounded in action in France. No details have been received as to the seriousness of the injury or the circumstances under which he was wounded.