The busy season is fairly upon North Dakotans, and all is now life and activity on well regulated farms and the villages. A few more weeks and seeding will have been generally accomplished.

The Construction of the Northern Pacific is being pushed into Montana, and it is stated that after the twenty-second of April the cars will run into Bozeman. It is expected that by the fourth of July Helena can celebrate the arrival of the cars direct from St. Paul.

It is not an every day occurrence for a vacant claim to be found in a town or city, but it has been done this month. A careful estimate of the counties of this territory indicates a total acreage of wheat of about two million and a half acres. In Dakota from railroad sources it is estimated that Southern Dakota will add 50,000 acres of new ground to wheat acreage. Central Dakota 75,000, James River Valley 20,000. Northern Pacific officials state that along their lines in Dakota the increase of wheat acreage will be one hundred per cent. Tower City Herald: Much has been written about lady farmers, but none can equal the efforts of the two Misses O'Neal, who reside on their farms near Buffalo. They have 160 acres each, and live in dwellings on their claims. Nearly 70 acres are ready for crop this spring. During the past winter, one of the sisters has been at work in Fargo, while the other has taken care of the sick mother, six head of stock, has hauled wood ten miles—one load of which capsize three times, yet the persevering maiden reloaded it, and finally reached home. The ladies purchased all their farm machinery, and for two years have done all their farm work—plowing, seeding, etc., except threshing—themselves.
