

IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

The Great Convention at Philadelphia of Representative Irish Citizens of the United States.

Formation of a New League for United and Active Efforts in Behalf of Ireland.

The Convention of the Irish National League of America, held at Philadelphia on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. It consisted of duly accredited delegates from the various benevolent, charitable and other Irish societies in America. The call for this second convention states that its object is to be to form a new league after the plan of the national league of Ireland, which will blend into one organization, as Irish societies of the United States and Canada, the new organization to be affiliated with the Irish national league of Ireland. The principles of the Irish national league, which was formed in Dublin in October last was as follows: First, national self-government; second, land law reform; third, self-government; fourth, extension of parliamentary and municipal franchises; fifth, development and encouragement of the labor and industrial interests of Ireland. The Philadelphia convention was largely attended and was called to order by President James A. Mooney of Buffalo, of the Irish national league of the United States; secretary J. J. Hynes, of Buffalo, secretary of the Irish national league of the United States; assistant secretaries, William F. Sheehan of Buffalo and J. D. O'Connell of Washington. No vice presidents.

Mr. Mooney, on taking the chair made a very sensible speech. Various committees were appointed and financial and other reports received and accepted. The report of the secretary shows that during the year 1883, the new branches reported to the central office, and now on the national roll, number 550, of whose existence the central office has official knowledge, and 289 not known officially.

Total amount of money received by the secretary from April 11, 1882, to April 25, 1883, was $79,038.

Among the committees appointed was the following, appointed to consider the method of merging the Land League with the new organization:

Arizona, James Redpath; Connecticut, James Reynolds; Georgia, Col. J. F. Armstrong; Illinois, Rev. Morris Downey; Indiana, James H. Allen; Iowa, M. V. Gannon; Kentucky, Matthew O'Dougherty; Louisiana, T. Mahoney; Maryland, Col. E. T. Joyce; Michigan, Rev. Dr. Charles O'Reilly; Minnesota, M. McCarthy; Missouri, Dr. Thomas O'Reilly; Massachusetts, Rev. Father Conally; Maine, J. N. A. Gallagher; New Hampshire, William H. Gorman; New Jersey, John H. Sanderson; New York, D. C. Feely; Nebraska, John Fitzgerald; Ohio, Major John Byrne; Pennsylvania, Rev. Thomas Barry; Vermont, William Mullen; Rhode Island, Col. F. S. O'Reilly; South Carolina, M. S. Kennedy; Virginia, Patrick McGovern; Wisconsin, James G. Donnelly; District of Columbia, Arthur Rooney.

On Thursday the convention continued its session. Mrs. Della Parnell entered, escorted by Alex. Sullivan of Chicago, who introduced her amid applause, as "greater than the mother of the Gracchi." Mrs. Parnell was loudly cheered upon entering. On motion of Mr. V. Gannon of Iowa a resolution of respect and sympathy for mother Fanny Parnell was adopted by a rising vote. It is stated the central league of Boston would decorate Fanny Parnell's grave.

Permanent organization was effected with the following officers: chairman, M. A. Foren of Ohio; secretary, John J. Hyeres; assistant secretaries, John J. Wright of Michigan, Edward Fitzwilliams of Massachusetts, Cornelius Horan of Pennsylvania, J. D. O'Connell of Washington. A number of vice-presidents were also chosen.

The following telegram from Charles Stewart Parnell was read which is notable for its apparent depreciation of what is termed the dynamite policy. His most noteworthy recommendation is that the convention frame a platform that will encourage aid from America, while the British government should at the same time have no pretext for entirely suppressing the national movement in Ireland.

LONDON, April 26.—James Mooney, Esq., President of the Irish-American Convention, Philadelphia: My presence at the opening of the most representative convention of Irish-Americans, in my opinion, ever assembled, being impossible, owing to the necessity of my remaining here to oppose the criminal code bill, which re-enacts personally the worst provisions of the coercion act, and if passed, will leave constitutional movements at the mercy of the government, I would respectfully ask you to lay my views before the convention. I would respectfully advise that your platform should be so framed as to enable us to continue to accept help from America, and at the same time avoid affording a pretext to the British government for entirely suppressing the national movement in Ireland.

In this way only, can unity of movement be preserved, both in Ireland and America. I have perfect confidence that by prudence, moderation and firmness the cause of Ireland will continue to advance, and though persecution rests heavily upon us at present, before many years have passed we shall have achieved those great objects for which through many centuries, our race has struggled.

The committee on merging the old with the new organization not being ready to report, the day was mostly spent in discussing minor matters. Of the result he has still perfect confidence. The speeches made were in the interest of harmony and united national action.

Friday was the last and most important day of the session. In the afternoon the committee on resolutions reported a very lengthy series, constituting a very minute and terrible arraignment of England for her course towards Ireland and concluding with a declaration of principles, among which and the most important were the following: Resolved, By the Irish-American people in convention assembled, that the English government in Ireland, originating in usurpation and perpetuated by force, having failed to discharge any of the duties of government, and never having acquired the consent of the governed, has no moral right whatever to exist in Ireland, and that it is the duty of the Irish race throughout the world to sustain the Irish people in the employment of all legitimate means to substitute for it national self-government.

Resolved, That we pledge our unqualified support, moral and material, to our countrymen in Ireland in their efforts to recover national self-government, and in order more effectually to promote this object by the consolidation of all our resources, and the creation of one responsible and representative body to speak for the greater Ireland in America, that all societies represented in this convention, and that all may hereafter comply with the conditions of admission, be organized into an Irish National League of America, for the purpose of supporting the National League of Ireland, of which Charles Stewart Parnell is president.

Resolved, That the policy of the English government in first reducing the Irish peasant to abject poverty, and then sending them penniless to the United States, dependent upon American charity, is unnatural, inhuman and an outrage upon the American government and people.

The resolutions were adopted. The report of the committee on organization was then read as follows:

Whereas, In the opinion of citizens of America and Canada, Irish, and Irish descent, it is needful for purposes hereinafter set forth, that, sinking all private prejudice and creed distinctions, they do unite to secure this common end, do band themselves together under the name and title of the Irish National League of America.

Article 1.—The objects of the Irish National League of America are:

First—Earnestly and actively to sustain the Irish National League in Ireland with moral and material aid in achieving self-government in Ireland.

Second—To procure a clear and more accurate understanding by the American people of the political, industrial and social condition of Ireland, that they may see for themselves that her poverty is the result of centuries of brute force and destructive legislation, and that if permitted to make her own laws on her own soil, she will demonstrate possession of all essentials, natural and ideal, for the political autonomy, beneficial alike to Ireland and the United States.

Third—To promote development of Irish manufactures by encouraging their import into the United States; to promote the study of Irish history, past and present, and circulate carefully prepared literature in schools and societies, that the justice of the cause may be thoroughly attended against ignorance, malice, and misrepresentation.

Fourth—To encourage the study of the Irish language, cultivation of Irish music and an enlightened love of art, characteristics which have made the past of our race bright amid darkness and have always secured for the Celt success and renown in every country in which he has had equal opportunity with his fellows.

Fifth—To hurt the enemy where he will feel it most by refusing to purchase any article of English manufacture, and by using all legitimate influence to discourage tradesmen from keeping English manufactures on sale.

Sixth—To abolish sectional feeling to destroy those baneful animosities of province and creed which have been handed down by the enemy, to weave closer the bonds of racial pride and affection, and to keep alive the holy flame of Irish nationality, while performing faithfully the duties of American citizenship.

After a stormy debate the plan of organization was adopted. It was ordered that a resolution of confidence and cheer be called to Charles S. Parnell. Mrs. Parnell, being introduced, said: Ladies and Gentlemen: I have been asked to crown with a wreath of laurel our immortal statesman, legislator and president, George Washington. The position of Ireland to-day is almost similar to that of our country in the Revolutionary war, and I have inherited a drop of that old blood. I have also inherited Irish blood, which gives me an additional claim on you. My father said, and I sustain him, that the party which secures and maintains a position in the enemy's country is sure to come out ahead. I deny that my son has not secured that position.

Mrs. Parnell then placed a wreath of laurel on the bust of George Washington, and great enthusiasm, the banner of Ireland, being waved over her head at this time. Alexander Sullivan of Chicago was elected president, and Dr. Charles O'Reilly of Detroit treasurer of the new league and Maj. Byrne was elected vice president and John J. Hynes was chosen secretary.

The chairman announced that Mrs. Parnell had been elected president of the Ladies' National League of America. He called on Henry F. Sheridan of Chicago, to lead in singing "God Save Ireland." The song was sung, the convention rising and joining in the chorus. The chairman then declared the convention adjourned.

Following is the executive council of the national league.

Rev. Father McKenna of Massachusetts, W. B. Wallace of New York, James Reynolds of New Hampshire, M. V. Gannon of Iowa, Judge J. G. Donnelly of Wisconsin, John L. Armstrong of Georgia, and United States Senator James Fair of Nevada.

Alexander Sullivan, elected president by the convention of the national league, is thirty-five years of age, and was born in Maine. He stumped Michigan for the constitutional amendment giving negroes the right of suffrage, and was an active abolitionist. He was a republican until 1872, then being a strong friend of Greeley, he supported the liberal movement, and has since been a democrat. He studied law with A. S. Sullivan of New York, and has been for a number of years in successful practice in Chicago.

Wit and Humor.

Like Horace Greeley: "I am like Horace Greeley in my manner of writing," said an Arkansas newspaper man to a friend. "Greeley, you know, while traveling on the train used to carry paper and write on the top of his plug hat. So do I." "Very natural," replied the man. "Why?" "You say that you used to write on your hat." "Yes." "Some men, you know, would rather write on fool's cap."—Arkansas Traveler.

Unwilling to invest: "Will you please give me fifteen cents for my dinner?" asked a ragged boy of a business man. "Yes, if it's a good dinner. I'd give fifteen cents for a dinner any time. Let's see it." "I mean, won't you give me fifteen cents, so that I can buy a dinner for myself?" "That's it, eh? I thought you had a dinner for sale. No, sir, I don't believe that I care to invest in your enterprise."—Arkansas Traveler.

Showing how easy it is to be funny: All the passengers in the street car on Austin avenue were very much annoyed by a crying child and one old gentleman appeared to be particularly exasperated. "I do wonder what little woosy tootsy is crying about," said the mother, dancing the infant up and down. "I know what he is crying about. He has been crying about six blocks; ever since you got into the car."—Texas Sittings.

Missionary work in West Virginia: "Is your husband at home?" "No, he is 'coon hunting. He killed two whooping big 'coon last Sunday." "Does he fear the Lord?" "I guess he does; 'cause he always takes his gun with him." "Have you any presbyterians around here?" "I don't know if he has killed any or not. You can go behind the house and look at the pile of hides to see if you can find any of their skins." "I see that you are living in the dark." "Yes, but my husband is going to cut out a window soon."—Wheating Register.

Another African Expedition.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says: "The expedition which Dr. Holub is about to undertake into the interior of Africa will, if he carries out his present intentions, prove only second in importance to Livingstone's and Stanley's out of those hitherto accomplished in that continent. Dr. Holub hopes to cross Africa from north to south—from Port Elizabeth to the Mediterranean. This gigantic enterprise, as conceived by the Austrian explorer, will not be a mere voyage of geographic discovery, but, if successful, will prove of immense benefit to science at large, contributing valuable additions to ethnology, botany, geology and natural history. The results of Dr. Holub's first African expedition justify great expectations as to the second. Dr. Holub has given the correspondent some few particulars of his proposed journey. It will, he states, be divided into three parts—a tour of four to seven months through some of the civilized parts of south Africa; through the west and eastern provinces of the Cape Colony, Griqualand West and the Orange Free state; a journey through the Bechuanaland kingdoms toward the north, of similar duration; a journey north of the Zambesi, as far to the north as it is possible to penetrate, with the intention of reaching Egypt and following the Nile to the Mediterranean. He intends to prosecute researches in botany, zoology, geology, ethnology and anthropology, and make, when possible, daily observations with his astronomical instruments.
