Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, was "doing" the Red River Valley the first of this week. He may take a soldier's additional in Griggs county.

Among the passengers lately arriving at Seattle, Washington Territory, on the steamer from San Francisco, was Mrs. John Little, direct from Chelsea, Mass. She came to rejoin her husband, who went out to California in 1849, and who has not seen his wife for thirty-four years.

Governor Butler is as much republican as democratic. He is like the Irishman who asked the stranger, "Which is the opposite side of the street?" "Over there," was the reply, pointing to the other side. "Faith, I jost came from there," said he, "and they told me 'twas over here."—Boston Herald.

The star route farce has come to an end, and the curtain has fallen on the greatest miscarriage of justice the courts of America have ever known. Brady, the two Dorseys, Miner, Vaile, and Rerdell were all pronounced not guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government in the manipulation of the star mail route contracts. It is a scandalous though fitting end to a scandalous trial, and the country is glad that it is over.

Peter Cooper, the philanthropist, once said: "In all towns where a newspaper is published, every man should advertise in it, even if nothing more than a card stating his name and the business in which he is engaged. It does not only pay the advertiser, but it lets people at a distance know that the town you reside in is a prosperous community of business men. As the seed is sown, so the fruit recompenses. Never pull down your sign while you expect to do business, for it often indicates that business is poor and you are losing your grip, commercially speaking. The judicious advertiser will receive in return ten dollars for every one invested in the columns of a live newspaper."
