

THE COURIER.

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1883.

Bradstreet says that trade begins to show signs of revival, and that the prospect is favorable for a good wheat crop in the Northwest.

A traveler in a letter to a Dakota paper says: "A friend canvassed a train between Chicago and St. Paul and found 712 persons on board; seven travelling men and the rest bound for Dakota."

Fargo Republican: Farmers who permit wild mustard to over-run their wheat fields will rue it. Many farmers take pains to eradicate the pest whenever it makes its appearance, while others apparently unconscious of the damage being done, permit the weed to flourish unmolested.

Fargo Republican: Those who attempted last winter to effect the repeal of the pre-emption law are not dead neither are they sleeping. They are doing all in their power to work up hostility to the pre-emption law and will renew their attack next winter.
