A QUEEN OF THE STAGE.

Her Second Love," and the Important Secret She Reveals for the Benefit of Wamen.

New York World.

Several years ago the American public were aroused by the entree upon the stage of a little lady who had been previously but little announced. She was one of an innumerable number of aspirants for public favor and had no instrumentality, aside from her own talstrumentality, aside from her own talents to cause recognition. In spite of this fact, however, she quickly achieved a warm place in the heart of the public which she has continued to hold ever since. When it was announced, therefore, that Miss Maude Granger would star the coming season in the play "Her Second Love," written by Mr. John A. Stevens it was only natural that unusual Stevens, it was only natural that unusual interest should be manifested not only in theatrical circles, but in other branches of the community. This was specially the case, as it was known that Miss Granger had, for the past year, been in exceedingly delicate health, and the determination to star in a strong emotional play was the more surprising. One of the staff of this paper was accordingly deputized to see the popular lady and verify the rumor or aunounce its incorrectness.

Miss Granger's countenance is familiar to nearly every one in the United States. It is a face once seen never to be forgotten. Features remarkable in their outline and contour are surmounted by a pair of large and deep eyes indicative of the greatest soul power. It is easy to see where Miss Granger obtains the ability to portray characters of the most emotional nature. She possesses within herself the elements of feeling without which no emotion can be conveyed to an audience. The man of news found the lady at her home in this city and was accorded a quiet welcome. It was evident at once that she was in greatly improved health, which the exression and color of her countenance both indicated.

"Is it true Miss Granger that you con-

"Yes, indeed. My season begins in Chicago on the 16th of July. From there I go to San Francisco and then play the remainder of the season through the eastern and western states,"

"Are you confident your health will permit such an undertaking?" A ringing laugh was the first reply to this question, after which she said:

"Certainly. It is true I have been ill for the past two years, but now I am wholly recovered. Few people can have any idea of the strain a conscientious actress undergoes in essaying an emo-tional part. It is necessary to put one's whole soul into the work in order to rightly portray the character. This ne-cessitates an utter abandonment of one's personality and an assumption of the character portrayed. If this is an emo-tional part it is necessary to feel the same emotions the part it is sup-posed to feel. For more than a year I a tually cried each night in certain passages of a part I was playing. The andicate considered it art. Probably it was, but those were none the less real tears and the effect none the less trying upon my health."

"But do you anticipate avoiding this in the future?"

"Not in the least. I expect to have just as great a strain as before but with restored health and a knowledge of how to retain it I do not fear."

"You speak of a 'knowledge of how to retain health." Will you please explain what you mean by that?"

You must be aware that women by their very natures are subject to troubles and afflictions unknown to the sterner The name of these troubles is legion, but in whatever form they may legion, but in whatever form they may come they are weaknesses which interfere with every ambition and hope in life. I believe thousands of noble women are to-day suffering agonies of which even their best friends and relatives know little or nothing, and when I reflect upon it I confess it makes me reflect upon it I confess it makes me sad. Now all this misery arises largely from an ignorance of the laws of life or a neglect to carefully observe them. I speak from the depths of a bitter experience in saying this, and I am thankful I know the means of restoration, and how to remain in perfect health."

'Please explain more fully."

"Well, I have found a remedy which seems specially adapted for this very purpose. It is pure and palatable and controls the health and life as, I believe, nothing else will. It is really invaluable and if all the women in America were to use it I am quite sure most of the suffer-ings and many deaths might be avoided."
"What is this wonderful remedy?"
"Warner's Safe Cure."

"And you use it?"

"Constantly."
"And hence believe you will be able to go through the coming season successful-

"I am quite certain of it." "A few questions more, Miss Granger. Will you please give me a list of the parts you have created and the plays you have taken part in since your first appearance

"I first played for some time with the amateurs in New York and Brooklyn. I then went to the Union Square theatre for two seasons, after that to the Boston Globe for one season and then to Booth's theatre in this city. Next I supported theatre in this city. Next I supported John McCullough and afterwards star-John McCullough and atterwards star-red in Juliet, Camille Rosalind, etc. Sub-sequently I created the part of Cicely Blaine in the Galley Slave and also star-red in Two Nights in Rome, playing the part of Antonia. The past year I have been playing in the Planter's Wife and the coming season, as I have said, will be devoted to Her Second Love."

As the writer was returning home he fell into a train of musing and wondered if all the women in this land who are suffering could only know Miss Granger's experience and the remarkable results achieved by the pure remedy she used, how much suffering might be avoided and how much happiness se-

Who Mrs. Butler Was.

Mrs. Butler came here as Miss Fannie Kemble during the winter of 1832-33, accompanying her father, Mr. Charles Kemble. She was then in the fresh dawn of womanhood and the first flush of genius, heralded by praises from Sir Walter Scott and Professer Wilson; and she received the first night, without any previous arrangements, such an ovation as perhaps was never accorded to any artist before or since. In one box were 'he judges of the supreme court, with the venerable Chief Justice Marshall; in another was Mrs. Madison, attended by ex-President John Quincy Adams; while the house was filled with the elite of all that was distinguished in literaof all that were distinguished in literature, arts, politics, and general society of that day. The name of Kemble revived to that illustrious assemblage the heroic age of the drama; and nobly did the father and daughter sustain the reputation of their lineage.

Mr. D. H. Barnaby, of Oshego, N. She was in this condition when a friend recommended Dr. Wm. Hail's Balsam for the Lungs and advised her to try it. She accepted it as a last resort, and was surprised to find that it produced a market change for the better, and by persevering in its use a permanent cure was efvering in its use a permanent cure was ef

The San Francisco Small Boy. From the San Francisco Chronicle.

In a family of bright, pretty children in South San Francisco-the father of whom is a well-known mechanic of this city-exists a bright little boy, not yet 3 years old, whose exploits are somewhat remarkable. His eccentricities, unlike most precocious children's, do not seem to detract from his other qualities either of head or heart. Not long since, yet before the little fellow was 30 months of ago, his father had occasion to look after some repairs at the top of a number of flat-roofed buildings of several stories' elevation. Taking the little one along with him and placing him on his coat at the foot of a ladder fastened perpendicularly against the back of one of them, he proceeded to the roof to make an investigation of the work to be done. This occupied more time than he expected, but was finally completed, and just as he was on the point of returning, judge of his surprise to see the little one's head peering above the topmost round of the ladder, and on a level with himself. To secure him and descend to the ground required no little command of nerve or exertion of muscle, but it was finally, to his great joy, accomplished. A week or two after this occurrence this little prodigy of fearlessness was missing from the family circle. A most thorough search, under great paternal anxiety, for a long time falled to discover his whereabouts. Finally, in passing through the street on which the above mentioned buildings front, the object of so much solicitude was discovered sitting on the edge of a projecting cornice, dangling his feet about at a most lively rate and looking at the objects below in a most unconcerned manner. By dint of per-severance and tact the little waif was finally brought to terra firms in safety.

To reach the perilous position in which he was found he had climbed the ladder on which he had made a previous exploit, walked over an eight-inch plank in the face of a strong role of wind. in the face of a strong gale of wind, to the second building and either scrambled over or crawled around a high troutage
