

THE COURIER.

FRIDAY, AUG 17, 1883.

An even one hundred final proofs were made at the Fargo land office last week.

This matchless weather reminds one of that poetic land where it is always afternoon.

The Sioux Falls university will be enlarged to accommodate 350 students, at a cost of $25,000.

Inkster, reported shot full of lead north of Grand Forks, is alive and well, having been seen by his brother, who gave him the first news of his alleged murder.

The new two cent stamp will come into use October 1. The design will be the head of Washington with the words "United States postage" above, and "two cents" below.

It is stated that the Northern Pacific will receive through freight for the points on the Pacific after Aug. 25, but the formal opening of the road will not take place till Sept. 8.

Foster county is still unorganized, and the rougher element carries the day over there. Carrington protests strongly but does not come down with enough collateral to gain Gov. Ordway's audience.

Plans and specifications have been completed for the new presbyterian university to be built at Pierre. The dimensions of the main building are 36x36 feet, two stories high. The wing is 14x36 feet, one story high, and contains the kitchen, dining and living rooms.

Vineland, N. J., has a population of 12,000, but its police and pauper expenses are less than $500 a year, while Yonkers, N. Y., with a population of 15,000, has a police and pauper expense of $35,000 a year. Vineland has no saloons, and never had any. Yonkers has 145 saloons.

The completion of the Northern Pacific in September will be just ten years after the great financial disaster which stopped the enterprise and precipitated the commercial panic of 1873. At that time there was completed of the road 450 miles in Minnesota and Dakota and 150 miles in Washington territory. The road when completed will be nearly 2,000 miles long upon the main line and 600 upon its branches.

Some of the most experienced farmers who have been carefully over the wheat fields of late, state that the grain is so plump, that unless farmers commence cutting as soon as the wheat commences to turn yellow, it will shell quite seriously; bushels of wheat will be lost on every acre if the grain is left until fully ripe. The kernels are so large and plump that they already protrude from the mash.—Fargo Argus.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Dakota talks about organizing a State government, applying for admission into the Union, and, if denied, running on her own responsibility as a state. Before the experiment is tried, it would be well for Dakota to send a delegation of her first citizens to see the Southern people and get some points on the advisability of setting up independent governments in these United States.
