The Way it's Done in Dakota.

The man who interviews passengers for the Chicago Herald, struck a fellow the other day who said:

"I have just come back from Dakota, and you ought to see the boom up there. Corner lots $2,000 apiece, where six weeks ago there was a bare prairie. When on my way out the conductor showed me where a new town was to be started; the workman were just then putting in a switch-track. Well, in two weeks I came back; there was a station there, three saloons, four stores, a lumberyard, a hotel and two or three dwellings."

"Do they have any newspapers up there?"

"Newspapers? Well I should say so. I struck one place they called a town. There was just three buildings in the place, and in one of them, a little thing about 8x10 feet, a newspaper was printed. The editor, proprietor, foreman, compositor, pressman, 'devil,' and reporter was a young man named Raymond, I think, who had been a compositor on the Chicago Tribune for two or three years. He told me he was Justice of the Peace, had his board paid up and money in his pocket, and never felt so good in his life before."

Inquiring employer; "Are the young man's habits regular?" "Well, yes; he gets drunk about every night."

Every man has three characters—that which he exhibits, that which he has, and that which he thinks he has.

A Georgia woman was baptised at the age of 108 years. It is always best to attend to such matters as early in life as possible.

Ten counties in Tennessee have no newspapers. Dakota may not be as "old and reliable" as Tennessee, but it hasn't a single organized county but that supports one or more live papers.

Pierre Free Press: In Dakota as in no other place woman exercises the same rights as man. In Pierre we have a lady lawyer, a lady physician (both unmarried, but eligible) and every female in town over twenty-one years old has a claim or a title to one hundred and sixty acres of land. But not only that but a large number of Pierre ladies are the wives of "henpecked" husbands so that we are justified in saying that in no other place like Dakota is woman monarch of all she surveys.
