Henry Villard's combined salaries are said to aggregate $80,000 a year.

Latest returns show that G. R. Thompson, of Portland, was elected commissioner by a majority of 18.

The surveying parties in the Devil's Lake land district have all gone into winter quarters. They sum up their work since they commenced in June at thirty-one towns surveyed, 714,240 acres, out of 6,410,000 in the district. Two-thirds of this is arable, but not all of the best quality.

The following is a brief serial from the Fargo Argus: In the lower part of Minnesota a number of young men who were admirers of the Jesse James tribe, became ambitious for a fame of similar sort, and armed themselves with pistols and knives; each stole all he could from his parents, and then repaired to a convenient cave in the surrounding mountains, from which they daily sallied forth on predatory tours until the town authorities finally captured them all. They are now languishing in jail.

George Stinson & Co., the celebrated Art Publishers, of Portland, Maine, undoubtedly pay more money for postage stamps than any other firm in the world; for the last five years their postage bill has averaged over two thousand dollars per week, making a grand aggregate of over five hundred and twenty thousand dollars; this is about the three-hundredth part of all the postage of every description collected by the United States government during that time, and in this connection it must be borne in mind that the country has over fifty million souls, and fifty thousand postoffices.
