According to the statistics of The American Miller Dakota produced more wheat than the aggregate yield of all the New England states and New Jersey, New York, Delaware, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and the territory of Montana.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Republican: Dakota has a candidate for governor to every square mile and a half-dozen at every cross-roads. Meanwhile Governor Ordway holds the fort and is likely to hold it; for he is one of the cunningest of seeming saints in politics and is influential at Washington.

A Dakota man writes from Los Angeles, in Southern California, that he don't care for quite so much "garden of Eden" in his. There is little rain there, and the dust is very annoying. He thinks that any man who has a good home in the Northwest would be very foolish to sell and go there.

Pierre Signal: It is estimated by some papers that the emigration to Dakota this spring will reach three hundred thousand. The Dakota fever has suddenly risen anew, and every state east of the Mississippi river has caught the fever. Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania will send an immense number to Dakota, and more will come from western states than ever before.

The president has nominated C. S. Palmer to be justice of the supreme court of Dakota, Fourth district, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Kidder. Mr. Palmer is a native of Vermont, and said to be a protegee of Edmunds of that state. He is about thirty-five years old, and is said to be a lawyer of first-class legal attainments, sound judgement and conservative in character. About two years ago, on recommendation of Senator Edmunds, he was appointed assistant district attorney, to assist Gen. Hugh J. Campbell in this territory. He has been the cause of considerable immigration to Dakota, through his recommendations to eastern friends, and is very popular wherever known.
