

Struggle With A Wolf

For many years the trapper Cheney was a "feature" of the northern New York wilderness. Every tourist through the woods reckoned his acquaintance one of the necessary adventures and all who returned from Lake Golden and Mt. Tahawus brought home choice collections—or collections—of forest stories related to them by "Daniel Boone of the Adirondacks." Cheney was a man who knew how to face a wild beast and never feared to do so—whether his antagonist was an angry moose, or a wildcat, panther, wolf, or bear. One of the many close encounters out of which he narrowly escaped was a winter fight with a she-wolf which his first shot failed to kill.

As he came upon the animal, ravenous with hunger, and floundering through the snow, he raised his rifle and fired; but the wolf made a spring as he pulled the trigger, and the ball did not hit a vital part. She then rushed at him furiously.

He had now nothing but an empty rifle to defend himself with, and instantly clubbing it, he struck the wolf on the head. So desperately did the creature fight that he broke the stock into fragments without disabling her.

He then seized the barrel, which, making a better bludgeon, told with more effect. The enraged animal seized the hard iron with her teeth and endeavored to wrench it from his grasp—but it was a matter of life and death with Cheney, and he fought savagely. In the meantime the wolf, by stepping on his snowshoes as she closed with him, threw him over.

He then thought the wolf would conquer, unless he could make his dogs, which were scouring the forest, hear him. He called loud and sharp after them, and soon one—a young hound—sprang into view; but no sooner did he see the condition of his master than he turned in affright, and fled into the woods.

But at this critical moment, the other hound burst in with a shrill, savage cry and a wild bound upon the struggling group. Seizing the wolf by the neck, he tore her fiercely from his master. Turning to grapple with this new foe, she gave Cheney opportunity to gather himself up, and fight to better advantage; and soon, by a well-directed blow, he finished one of the severest battles he had ever had with a wild beast.

After that lesson Cheney bought a pistol—and took good care not to go hunting again with a single fire-arm barrel, and so run the risk of making himself defenceless by missing a shot.

Result of a Practical Joke

A paragraph in the Cleveland paper not long since told the sad story of a hoax practised by three women upon a friend. It seemed harmless to them. It proved almost fatal to the friend, and illustrates a fact that should not be forgotten that frights may kill, or may craze the brain permanently. Such jokes are criminal, and deserve a serious penalty. The victim of this hoax—Mrs. Burns—had gone away for a short time, leaving her husband and little ones at home.

The husband went to work and the three women thought it would be extremely funny to scare Mrs. Burns. The chairs and tables were upset, and everything was put "topsy-turvy." A figure was made and clothed in a suit of Burns's clothes, and was laid on the floor, its head tied with a white bandage, resting against the sewing-machine.

Then the women secreted themselves. Mrs. Burns, who is of a nervous temperament, came home and was struck speechless with horror at the scene. The poor woman, seeing the inanimate form, immediately supposed that her husband had committed suicide. Tethering to the house of a neighbor, she gasped out that her husband was dead, and fainted away.

A physician was called, but she went from one spasm into another. When she finally revived enough to talk, it was found that her reason had left her. For days she hovered between life and death. Although now considered out of danger, the shock has left its impression upon her mind, and she may never fully recover.

A Hanover Girl Objects to Being Called a Witch

From the Harrisburg Telegraph.

A curious action for libel will shortly be heard in the Hanover law courts. It appears that a young farmer met a very attractive girl at a ball, danced with her several times and left early at night to return home by train. He duly arrived at his destination, but some little time after leaving the railroad station saw, to his surprise, his partner of the evening seated on a chair in the middle of the road, with the moonlight shining on her face. She beckoned to him and he approached her, gasping out: "Why, I thought I left you dancing. How on earth did you manage to get here?"

"Ha," said the girl with a mocking laugh, "I am a witch." The young man took to his heels, but the damsel assumed the form of a dog and followed him to his father's house, where he arrived more dead than alive and told the story to his astonished relatives. As a natural consequence the story soon got about and the young lady found herself shunned by all her former acquaintances. On hearing the reason of the coolness she at once instituted an action for defamation of character.

Heed the Warning

By not heeding the warnings of nature many persons are laid up on a bed of sickness and suffering for weeks, months or years. There is hardly a disease that attacks the system which is not preceded by symptoms. Let these symptoms be attended to and the disease will be nipped in the bud. Note the following:

Dyspepsia.
Variable appetite, faint gnawing feeling at pit of stomach, bad taste in the mouth, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, headache and constipation. Burdock Blood Bitters will positively relieve any of above symptoms & cure Dyspepsia.

Kidney Disease.
Pain in small of back, pain in loins, flushes of heat and chills with disordered stomach and bowels, headache, weakness, &c. In fact Kidney Complaint appears in so many different ways, it is impossible to name them all.

Burdock Blood Bitters has cured some of the most stubborn forms of Kidney Disease; in fact has never been used without good effect. Any one of the above symptoms is not sufficient to cause any alarm, and many persons do not pay any attention to it until the symptoms multiply and they discover disease has made great inroads, and possibly firmly established itself in the system.

Heed the signals of Nature before it is too late. Burdock Blood Bitters will assist you.

The island of Ceylon has made remarkable progress during the last 50 years. Its revenue in 1837 was only £372,000 and its population did not exceed 1,500,000. Last year its revenue was £1,300,000 and its population nearly 3,000,000. Nine years ago it exported only 19,000 pounds of Cinchona bark, while the amount exported last year was 7,000,000 pounds; the number of Buddhists in Ceylon is 1,700,000; of Hindus, 600,000; of Mohammedans, 200,000; of Roman Catholics, 220,000; of Protestants, 50,000.

White Beaver, or Dr. Frank Powell.
The above well known plainman, author and wonderfully gifted physician and surgeon has opened an office in St. Paul, Minn., where he will spend the second and fourth weeks of every month. His remarkable success in the treatment of female diseases especially, has made his name famous throughout the north-west.

When cholera came to Italy direct from Mecca in 1861, it carried off 13,000 that year; it almost died out in the Winter and Spring, revived a little in the Autumn of 1866, appeared to die out once more in the Winter following, but in 1867, with no fresh importation from the East, it broke out so universally and so disastrously that 130,000 people in Italy died of it.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.

Shakespeare tells how this can be accomplished in one of his immortal plays; but debts to nature must be paid on demand unless days of grace be obtained through the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a "cure-all" but invaluable for sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, consumption, and all diseases of the pulmonary and other organs caused by scrofula or "bad blood." Scrofulous ulcers, swellings and tumors are cured by its wonderful alterative action. By druggists.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT.

A Young Girl's Dementia—How it was Occasioned—Some New and Startling Facts.

The St. Louis Express, on the New York Central road, was crowded one evening recently, when at one of the way stations, an elderly gentleman, accompanied by a young lady, entered the cars and finally secured a seat. As the conductor approached the pair, the young lady arose, and in a pleading voice said:

"Please, sir, don't let him carry me to the asylum. I am not crazy; I am a little tired, but not mad. Oh! no indeed. Won't you please have papa take me back home?"

The conductor, accustomed though he was to all phases of humanity, looked with astonishment at the pair as did the other passengers in their vicinity. A few words from the father, however, sufficed, and the conductor passed on while the young lady turned her face to the window. The writer chanced to be seated just behind the old gentleman and could not forego the desire to speak to him. With a sad face and a trembling voice the father said:

"My daughter has been attending the seminary in a distant town and was succeeding remarkably. Her natural qualities, together with a great ambition, placed her in the front ranks of the school, but she studied too closely, was not careful of her health, and her poor brain had been turned. I am taking her to a private asylum where we hope she will soon be better."

At the next station the old man and his daughter left the cars, but the incident so suggestive of Shakespeare's Ophelia, awakened strange thoughts in the mind of the writer. It is an absolute fact that while the population of America increased thirty per cent. during the decade between 1870 and 1880 the insanity increase was over one hundred and thirty five per cent for the same period. Travelers by rail, by boat, or in carriages in any part of the land see large and elaborate buildings, and inquire what they are?

Insane asylums? Who builds them? Each state; each county; hundreds of private individuals, and in all cases their capacity is taxed to the utmost.

Why? Because men, in business and the professions, women, at home or in society, and children at school overtax their mental and nervous forces by work, worry and care. This brings about nervous disorders, indigestion and eventually mania.

It is not always trouble with the head that causes insanity. It far oftener arises from evils in other parts of the body. The nervous system determines the status of the brain. Any one who has periodic headaches; occasional dizziness; a dimness of vision; a ringing in the ears; a feverish head; frequent nausea or a sinking at the pit of the stomach, should take warning at once. The stomach and head are in direct sympathy and if one be impaired the other can never be in order. Acute dyspepsia causes more insane suicides than any other known agency and the man, woman or child whose stomach is deranged is not and cannot be safe from the coming on at any moment of mania in some one of its many terrible forms.

The value of moderation and the imperative necessity of care in keeping the stomach right must therefore be clear to all. The least appearance of indigestion, or mal-assimilation of food should be watched as carefully as the first approach of an invading army. Many means have been advocated for meeting such attacks, but all have heretofore been more or less defective. There can be little doubt, however, that for the purpose of regulating the stomach, toning it up to proper action, keeping its nerves in a normal condition and purifying the blood, Warner's Tippecanoe The Best, excels all ancient or recent discoveries. It is absolutely pure and vegetable; it is certain to add vigor to adults, while it cannot by any possibility injure even a child. The fact that it was used in the days of the famous Harrison family is proof positive of its merit as it has so thoroughly withstood the test of time. As a tonic and revivifier it is simply wonderful. It has relieved the agony of the stomach in thousands of cases; soothed the tired nerves; produced peaceful sleep and averted the coming on of a mania more to be dreaded than death itself.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best Physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver; the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave. Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it."—A WORKINGMAN.
