How is your cold?
T. F. Robinson visited his brother Herb last week.
The outfit for the new butcher shop is on the ground.
Members of the W. C. T. U. had a sleigh ride and pleasure of meeting at Mrs. Gibbs last week.

Walter Richardson's father came in last week with a car of stock. He has rented Ed. Guest a farm.
J. G. Mills took the train Monday for Mandan. He will return with some thoroughbred stock.

Our little berg has been very busy the past week. Lots of folks coming in and farmers rushing preparations for seeding.

From the way winter lingers in the lap of spring, we should judge that spring was about sweet sixteen and fair to look upon.

A letter from W. C. Langdon says he will soon be in Fargo and on the farm as soon there is a prospect of work beginning.

Jno. Larson, Ole Helgeland, Jno. Berg and Conrad have departed for the northwest and will hold down their claims the coming summer.

Rev. and Mrs. Carmine and the baby have gone to Kansas. Rev. C. will return in a few weeks, but Mrs. Carmine will remain for medical treatment.

Not a very large crowd was present at the school entertainment Friday evening. Those that were there seemed to enjoy themselves. Proceeds go towards buying a bell for the school house.

Strandness & Furaas have packed their belongings and departed for Finley. No one seems to know positively who will succeed them, but if their successors keep as good and as clean a stock they will have to hustle.

Donald Campbell returned last week from a trip to Wisconsin bringing back 3 thoroughbred Percheron Stallions and 1 Clyde. They are all young exceptionally good horses and parties wanting such should see them. Stephen Fluke bought the thoroughbred Shorthorn that he also bought.

Six hundred bushels of flax in one day at one cent less than the combination was paying is a record to be proud of. It also shows that there are plenty of farmers who are wise enough to know that to help drive us out would be simply cutting their own profits, that they had better have their grain handled on a small margin all the time, than for nothing now and a big margin later on.

John Y. to the Front.
"I had been abroad for three years," said the judge, "and, as the people in my native town labored under the idea that I was a man of some consequence, they welcomed me home with a brass band and a dinner. I was about to reply to the address of welcome when the village cooper approached me with extended hand and said:
"So you've got back home, eh? Say, judge, when you went away I was doing all my own work and had my shop in the woodshed; now I've turned a hoss barn into a cooper shop and am bossing two journeymen and making fifty barrels a week. Don't forget to say that while you've been wasting your time in Europe John Y. Higgins has come right to the front at home."
"My little speech to my fellow townsmen didn't arouse much enthusiasm," said the judge, "and that cooper was to blame for it. He simply willed me."
Detroit Free Press.

A Ready Answer.
Not all visitors to the country are as ignorant of the farmer's surroundings as the farmers sometimes suppose. Browning's Magazine gives this instance:
"Waal," said Farmer Wilkins to his city boarder, who was up early and looking round, "ben out to hear the haycock crow, I s'pose." And he winked at his hired man.
"No," replied the city boarder; "I've been out tying a knot in a cord of wood."
Farmer Wilkins scowled at the hired man and wanted to know why he was not getting to work at milking those cows.

Seeing Snakes.
Persons suffering from delirium tremens usually imagine that they are surrounded by snakes. An explanation of this hallucination, says the Family Doctor, is offered by the result of some recent experiments. Sixteen alcoholic patients were examined with the ophthalmoscope, and it was found that the minute blood vessels in the retina of their eyes were congested. In this condition they appear black and are projected into the field of vision, where their movements resemble the squirming of serpents.

A Deserved Fate.
Some poet wrote the following:
"Long is that morn that brings no eve; tall is the corn that no cobs leave; blue is the sky that never looks yellow; hard is the apple that never grows mellow; but longer and bluer and harder and tall is my own ladylove—my adorable Pohl." P. S.—The author has since died in great agony.—London Tit-Bits.
