THE COURIER. By Percy R. Grubshaw.

PRESIDENTIAL TICKET.

For President—
THEODORE ROOSEVELT, New York.

For Vice-President—
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, Indiana.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Fifth Judicial District.

For Judge—
E. T. BURKE, Barnes County.

The democratic party wanted a man of mature judgment on its ticket so it nominated for vice-president a gentleman who has reached the age of 61—just in the prime of life.

Adolph Djuerg, of Barnes County, writes very interestingly of our North Dakota exhibit and thinks North Dakota has a very fine exhibit with no chance for a kick. Here is a chance for Bro. Lampman to knock-out Mr. Djuerg for having a contrary opinion.

We notice by the McHenry Tribune that Attorney R. A. Bill, of Carrington, is a candidate for the office of states attorney of Foster. Mr. Bill is an old friend of the COURIER editor dating back into the early eighties. We believe if he is elected he will give Foster county a clean administration. Here's wishing you success Mr. Bill.

The republican state convention will be held at Grand Forks, July 20th. It is almost a foregone conclusion that Messrs. Spalding and Marshall will be renominated for congress and E. Y. Sarles for governor, the balance of the ticket will undoubtedly be made up by the combination controlling the governorship. The ticket will be a winner in all events.

The Grand Forks News facetiously remarks that President Roosevelt is an accident. Accidents as a rule are a bad thing but in this case it is one of the best "accidents" that ever happened. We now have a president who is trying to run this government right without the dictation of the bosses of his own party and who turns the shafts of his democratic snarling opponents just as easy as a duck sheds water. We are candidly of the opinion that the people will again elect the "accident" next November.

John Sharpe Williams, leader of the house on the democratic side, delivered the principal address at the St. Louis convention and those who heard it must have been disappointed. They expected a forceful address on what the democratic party expected to do and what it stands for, but instead they heard only a tirade of sarcasm on the republican party and President Roosevelt. Mr. Williams' speech falls very flat on the country and is in striking contrast to that of Mr. Root before the republican convention, who presented the history of his party and what it had done and pledged itself to do.

When Roosevelt was nominated a couple of weeks ago the Sentinel intimated that the editor of this paper might possibly go crazy over the result. The only thing in connection with Mr. Roosevelt's nomination that might lead us to go crazy would be the delight shown at the wisdom of the republican party in its nomination, which is in striking contrast to the nomination of Judge Parker by the democrats at St. Louis—a candidate foisted on the party by Wall street—a man without an opinion. We certainly shall not blame Bro. Rearick or any of his party if they go crazy over the outcome of the St. Louis convention. It is like taking a dose of worm-wood.

It has been demonstrated that it would be a good idea for the Fair Association to change the date of its stock exhibit from July 4th to some other date. The national holiday is a day on which people like to get out and have a good time generally and as a rule a majority of the people—farmers included—do not care to spend the time in looking at stock. Another argument in favor of a change is that there are so many different parties and picnics on the fourth that it takes away a great many people who would come if the fair was held on some other date. There is no use disguising the fact that the fair association has done more to promote the breeding of good stock in this county than all other efforts combined and it would be foolish for the farming interests of Griggs county to let up in the good work. The farmers are the ones that reap the benefit—they get the premiums while the board does the work without pay and gets a liberal supply of cursing and is accused of grafting by a few pinheads who are sore at everybody and everything on general principles. The knockers had better drop their hammers into a deep well, put their shoulders to the wheel and help along one of the best institutions that ever struck the county. There has been thousands of dollars worth of stock sold as a result of our little fair at good prices—all of which our farmers got for themselves without the association getting a cent. Surely this ought to count for something.

Judge Glaspell's Candidacy.

Newspapers in the district are commenting on the fact that Judge Glaspell has announced himself as an independent candidate for judge of this district. At the same time the Jamestown Capital which is advertising the judge's candidacy states that the democratic leaders of the district, and especially of Stutsman county are favorable to his nomination on the democratic ticket. The law requires that a candidate must choose which ticket his name shall be printed under, and that no candidate can have his name in more than one column on the official ballot. If nominated by the democrats as their candidate, the judge's name will have to be placed among the list of democratic candidates. If he runs as an independent candidate, his name will go on the ballot by petition in another column. Although Judge Glaspell failed to get the republican nomination he does not necessarily lose his republican party standing by announcing himself as an independent candidate. It may be that the judge does not really desire to have his name appear on the official ballot as an independent candidate, in an out of the way place, but rather to secure an endorsement as an independent by the democratic judicial convention, and thus bring his name in the democratic column. He could do this and still be considered by many a republican in political affiliations. By thus getting his name in the democratic column, he would still as a republican, get a large portion of the democratic vote and yet not be recognized as a democrat. He would thus be able to use the machinery of that party to good effect for his personal advantage, and do a double turn in politics, besides.

This seems a shrewd plan to get votes and is creditable to the well known reputation of the judge for fine political work. Its ultimate success depends on whether the democratic party of the district wants to boost along a republican candidate, who failed to land in his own party convention, at the expense of the democratic candidates of the district.—Jamestown Daily Alert.

ABOUT MR. QUAMME.

June 18th Rev. O. K. Quamme, who has recently arrived at his farm near Crookston, Minn., for a summer vacation, was smitten with a severe accident. He had just come from town and as he was unhitching the horses, they escaped with the harness. As one of the horses was about to roll with her harness, Mr. Quamme, who wished to prevent the act, stooped to pick up the rein when the horse arose and kicked him over the left eye. He was immediately taken to a hospital under good doctors' and nurses' care he seemed to be improving until Wednesday when he became unconscious which the doctors claim was due to brain fever, caused by the severe shock. In such a state he remained for a whole week when through a peaceful sleep, he wandered to a land of never ceasing happiness.

Mr. Quamme leaves a wife and four children; a sister and two brothers to mourn his departure.

Ole Knutsen Quamme was born in Lardal, Norway, Nov. 3, 1852; came to Minnesota in 1864; married Ingrid Olsen in 1874; studied for ministry at Augsburg, Minneapolis, Minn.; became a minister in 1886; accepted a clerical call in the vicinity of Cooperstown where he has lived for eighteen years.

He was a kind and loving father, a devoted husband; a faithful worker and a friend of all with whom he came in contact. His many friends and parishioners regret sincerely his untimely death and his bereaved family will find many sympathizing friends.

The funeral took place in the United Lutheran church of Crookston, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion and from where a great multitude of friends and relatives followed the remains to its last resting place, Rev. Haues and Rev. Brono officiating. * * *
