A class in Arithmetic was wrestling with subtraction and the teacher was explaining that things subtracted must be of the same denomination as the thing subtracted from. She said you could not subtract five pears from six apples, five lemons from 6 oranges, etc., when up went a hand from a boy in the class. "What is it, Johnnie?" said the teacher. "Please can't you take five quarts of milk from six cows?" and the teacher collapsed.

The workman on the schoolhouse have got all the cut stone laid which completes the basement and the regular brick work ought to be rushed right along now. Those of our citizens who went to Devils Lake to register for claims say that the Indians have gobbled up all the best land and that outside of about fifty claims those who want 160 acres will have to get it in forties scattered all over which makes it very inconvenient. It is quite natural for the Indians to pick the best land and we would do the same thing if we had the same opportunity.

The five year old son of P. Lunde met with a bad accident last Thursday by falling head first into a ten foot deep cistern, receiving some very ugly cuts on each side of the head and getting its body badly bruised. The cistern was being repaired and was empty and the little fellow came along and fell into it before he was noticed near the cistern. It was a close call for him all right.

The farmer in this county should not need to be advised as to the danger of prairie fires, especially this year. The grass is unusually tall, and in a short time it will be in prime condition to catch fire. When it does, nobody knows how far it will spread or what damage it will do. Haystacks, wheat stacks, granaries, barns, houses—all are liable to go if they are in the path. This year a well travelled road will afford no break to the flames. Careless people drop matches or cigars, or they burn back fires, and let the flames get away from them. Plow your fire breaks wide.

"Tell me not in rotten rag time things are always as they seem, for there is little modern butter that is really made of cream. Breakfast foods are built of saw-dust, left in bulk or chopped up fine, and a man off orders beefsteak and on horse is forced to dine. Lives great men off remind us if we want to be thought wise, we must make some brand of pickles, then pitch in and advertise. Let us then be up and doing, there are many we can do, and if we don't do the others, they with us will have their fun."
