A USEFUL CIGAR.

Its Lighting Was the Means of Averting
a Serious Panic.

A good story is told of a sea captain who died a number of years ago and who was formerly in command of a ship in which passengers were carried from London to Lisbon. On one occasion the ship caught fire, and the passengers and crew were compelled to take hurriedly to the boats. The captain remained perfectly cool throughout all the confusion and fright of the debarkation, and at last every one except himself was got safely into the boats.

By the time he was ready to follow the passengers were almost wild with fear and excitement. Instead of hurrying down the ladder the captain called out to the sailors to hold on a minute and, taking a cigar from his pocket, coolly lit it with a bit of burning rope which had fallen from the rigging at his feet. Then he descended with deliberation and gave the order to push off.

"How could you stop to light a cigar at such a moment?" he was asked afterward when some of the passengers were talking over their escape.

"Because," he answered, "I saw that if I did not do something to divert the minds of those in the boat there was likely to be a panic, and, overcrowded as it was, there was danger of the boat being upset. The act took but a moment, but it attracted the attention of everybody. I was not nearly so unconcerned as I seemed to be, but was in reality in a fever of excitement. My little plan succeeded. You all forgot yourselves because you were thinking about my curious behavior, and we got off safely."—London Standard.

The Ideal Diet.

Do the real needs of the body demand such quantities of food each day as the ordinary dietary standards call for or as man from his acquired habits has become accustomed to? A slight excess of food beyond the true physiological requirement is no doubt desirable as tending to prevent any danger of under-nutrition, but any great excess must of necessity be detrimental. The ideal diet is that which suffices to meet all the wants of the body—i. e., the maintenance of body weight, nitrogen equilibrium, health, strength, vigor and endurance—and in the period of adolescence to supply material for the growth and development of the tissues of the body. Anything beyond this quantity is just so much of an excess which must inevitably do harm if continued indefinitely and detract in some measure at least from that high degree of efficiency which every enlightened man desires to attain.—Russell H. Chittenden in Century.

Under Age.

People in Birchtown were used to Uncle Randolph Green's way of talking and enjoyed it. But at last there came a member of the summer colony a man who had a desire to set everything and everybody straight, according to his ideas.

"What is the sense of your referring to that animal of yours as a 'colt?'" demanded this person one day. "How old is he?"

"Well, he's going on eleven years," said Uncle Randolph mildly. "Eleven years?" sneered the man.

"Well, we should call that pretty ancient for a colt—in New York."

"I think likely you would," said Uncle Randolph, without rancor, but with considerable firmness in his soft, old voice, "but perhaps 't would be well to consider, mister, that this colt o' mine resides in Birchtown, where eleven years is pretty young for a horse."

Strange Story of a Book Agent.

One morning last week a cadaverous young man with a valise called at the office of a busy lawyer.

"Mr. Rangle," he said, "can I sell you a history of Menard county?"

"Why, that happens to be the county I was born and grew up in," said the lawyer. "What is the book worth?"

"Four dollars a copy."

"I'll take one."

To Mr. Rangle's intense surprise the caller burst into tears.

"What's the matter, young man?" he asked. "Was the shock too great for you?"

"It—it wasn't what I expected!" sobbed the book agent. "I had made a bet of $5 you'd kick me out!"—Buffalo Times.

Laundry Hints.

Flannels and woollens should not be touched with a very hot iron.

Blankets and flannel garments should not be wrung out, but allowed to drip, and that not in the sun.

A teaspoonful of salt to every bucket of water will prevent dye running or fading from colored articles.

Mending Curtains.

If when ironing a curtain you discover a hole in it take a piece of the best part of an old curtain, a little larger than the hole, and dip the edges in cold starch. Then place it over the hole and afterward iron over it.

Keep Cheese Covered.

Always keep cheese well covered in a cheese dish or it will become dry and tasteless. If the cheese is wrapped in a cloth moistened with vinegar it will keep beautifully moist and retain its flavor longer.

A Progressive Institution.

Keeping pace with business development in Minneapolis we find that educational matters have not been neglected. One of the largest educational institutions, the Eclectic Business College, after years of prosperity has, by reason of its increased patronage, been pushed into larger quarters.

The College is located in its new home at the corner of Third Avenue South and Fifth Street. The location is the best the city affords, being a quiet corner in a refined section.

The best faculty of business educators to be procured will be in charge of the various departments, which includes Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Penmanship, Telegraphy, Preparatory, Electrical Engineering, Civil Service, Teachers' and Physical Culture.

An attractive feature will be a thoroughly equipped gymnasium for both ladies and gentlemen.

The large number of graduates holding responsible positions is a standing tribute to the thoroughness of the work. An inspection of the new quarters discloses the fact that the Eclectic will be the best and most thoroughly equipped commercial school in the Northwest.

The fall term opens September 4th. Any young person interested in commercial work should write the Eclectic Business College, Minneapolis, for terms and catalog.
