

—Jas. Muir has associated with himself in the building business J. W. Christie, a very apt young man when it comes to handling tools. The new firm is drove with jobs, and it is not to be wondered at when the superior character of their work is considered.