Hit the Next Door.

"Ah," he said, as the door opened, but do I address the lady of the house?"
 "No," replied the girl, as her face melted a little; "I am the housekeeper."
 "Um! She is out, then?"
 "Yes—gone to the skating rink."
 "And the gentleman?"
 "He's gone to a raffle."
 "Um. Any daughters?"
 "Two of 'em, sir. The eldest, which is Fanny, is across the way learning how to play euchre, and the other, which is Suste, has rigged up as an actress, and gone down to have a statuesque photograph taken."
 "Um! No sons?"
 "Only one, sir, and this is the hour when he takes his boxing lessons. Did you wish to see any one in particular, sir?"
 "Well, I'm taking orders for the Cottage Family Bible. As I was in hopes to secure a subscriber, perhaps you—"
 "Oh, its no use talking, sir," she said, as the door began to close. "My beau brought me in fifteen dime novels last night, and I go to three dances a week, and I'm just catching onto old sledge, and, really, sir, you'd better hit the family next door. I think we have suspended business in your line of goods."—Ex.

The Last of the Mohicans.

Ex-Corporation Attorney Fields of the Tweed ring died in exile on the banks of the Ottawa river at St. Andrews, P. Q., Sunday. He was arrested at the grand round-up of thieves, but jumped bail and fled to Canada with his wealth. This he squandered, and died comparatively poor. He was anticipating returning to New York and running for mayor.

Typographical.

A short time ago the local paper at Red bluff, Cal., announced that "the prayer meeting at the M. E. Church will be hell to-night." This typographical error made many people believe that something remarkable was to take place at the meeting, and the church was crowded. The officiating brethren, greatly encouraged by the large attendance, were inspired by eloquence, and the result was, that thirteen converted persons united with the church.

High Toned Slugging.

John Roosevelt, a member of the Union club, and Rutgers Van Brunt, of the Knickerbocker club, had a brutal prize fight in the parlors of an aristocratic mansion on Murray Hill, Wednesday, which resulted in a draw. Both swells were badly pummeled. The aristocratic gentlemen, who were permitted to view the contest decided that it was the prettiest fight of the season.

A Rising Man.

Paddy Ryan was a Sunday school scholar in St. Peter's Presbyterian church, at Rochester, N. Y., in 1855. Paddy "kin lick" old Sullivan, now.
