A great deal of talk has been engaged in in regard to the oppression of Dakota farmers by the Millers' associations, the railroads, and the elevator companies. The legislature has been appealed to to remedy, as far as lies in its power, the existing evils. But any assistance rendered by that body will be but small, as compared with what the farmer himself is capable of doing toward bettering Milwaukee to Chicago and all points in his condition. Since the birth of Dako- the Eastern States and Canada. It is ta, it has been rocked in the cradle of the only line under one management be-No. 1 Hard. We have heard of nothing tween St. Paul and Chicago, and is the but North Dakota and No.1 Hard. When finest equipped railway in the Northwest the emigrant came he settled on his It is the only line running sleeping cars quarter section, prepared his ground, and with luxuriant smoking rooms, and the commenced raising No. 1 hard. We finest dining cars in the world, via the recollect, as short a time as two years famous "River Bank Route," along the ago, when the farmer, who prided himself on his broad acres, came to town and bought oats to feed his teams, while he plowed, drilled in, and barvested No. 1 hard. So deeply engrossed was he in raising No. 1 ha d tl a he never stopped to consider the propriety of raising his own horse feed. Oats and corn were year, and retailed out to the farmer by general dealers; and this in a country where oats yields from 50 to 70 bushels to the acre. Every foot of available ground was given up to raising No. 1 hard. Year after year, when our farmers came to town they purchased "sow-belly" and beans, condensed milk, eggs, canned corn, canned tomatoes, butter, lard, potatoes, onions, etc. They sass;" they had no time to look after cows, and pigs, and chicken cows, and pigs, and chickens. They wanted to be bonanza farmers, and raise No. 1 hard. They mortgaged their acres of No. 1 hard for oats for their horses, for garden truck, and other family necessities, and now they are raising because the railroads, the millers' associations and the elevators have got them by the throat, as it were, and regulate he price of No. 1 hard to suit them-

The Dakota farmer can make himself as independent of these monopolistic leaches as he is of the tyrany of a foreign despot. He lives in a country unsurpassed by any on the globe for agricultural purposes; it is especially adapted for stock raising, its luxuriant growth of nutritious grasses affording a pasturof nutritious grasses affording a pasturage, unequaled even by the renowned valleys of Montana. Whenever our farmer friends can content themselves with growing less No. 1 hard, and turn their attention to raising horses, cattle, hogs and sheep, together with oats, corn, barley, garden truck, and chickens, they will then have fortified themselves against the monopolies. A failure of your wheat crop will not bring you to want's door; you will have something to fall back on.

At present, with nothing but wheat as the product of your fertile farms, you are at the mercy of droughts, of hail, of grasshoppers, and monopoles.

Elevators are not necessary in the shipment of stock; you don't come in contact with millers' associations, and the railroads are bound to recognize your rights, as common carriers.
