

Always Want to Fight.
From the Boston Advertiser.

Public opinion in England is always earnest for war. In that country exist great multitudes of people never more than half employed, and food for powder, and from this class to a large extent is recruited the military power of England. The public houses of the city of London alone would furnish a respectable army of the usual suckers and sitters around, and these always advocate war. Besides, in an old country like England, war is a commercial opportunity and career for many a man who would have no chance in time of peace. But in Russia war is just as much of a delight to great masses of unknown people.

Such a war may turn out to be a deplorable thing for civilization, because there is a constant temptation on the part of England to use her Asiatic subjects in their contests with other Christian Powers, and when this once begins there is a prospect of the entire Christian world being overrun from Asia to Africa. The Turks, long after the discovery of America, nearly captured Vienna, and our country, down to the close of Jefferson's administration, had to pay annual tribute to the African pirates, who made nothing of capturing a peaceful ship and selling every woman to be found on board of her into slavery. The way India was obtained leads to an interminable struggle over it. You never saw an estate gotten by fraud or sharp practice but some time or other it was brought into litigation, and this estate of India is a phenomenon in the demands of a nation which is constantly extending the franchise for all the neighboring nations.

Hardly a newspaper printed that speaks of a sudden death by Heart Disease. DR. GYAVES' HEART REGULATOR would have cured it; strong assertion, but many have said they were saved from the grave by it. $1.00 per bottle at druggists.

Penjdeh and its Surroundings.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.
Penjdeh, where the first Russo-Afghan battle was fought, is between sixty and seventy miles south of the old Russian boundary, and about fifty miles north of the line now claimed by the Russians, but disputed by the Afghans and English. It is, in fact, very near the center of the disputed territory, which extends from north to south about 110 miles, and from east to west about 100 miles on its southern side, and 150 on its northern. It is not a large area, but is well watered by the Kushk and the Murghab rivers, which unite a little north of Penjdeh, and by the Heri Rud, which bounds the territory on its western side, defining the Persian frontier.

The valleys of these rivers are fruitful, but it is neither their agricultural wealth nor their mineral resources of the mountains that make the territory so desirable. If the territory in dispute is conceded to Russia, it brings her frontiers within a hundred miles of Herat, the acknowledged key to Afghanistan and the passes into India. While Penjdeh may not of itself be, as Lord Dufferin says, worth fighting about, its possession by Russia would be a subject of solicitude to England, who, considering the steady advance of Russia southward from Khiva, must necessarily mistrust the motive of this extension of the Russian frontier. There could be no especial object in acquiring Penjdeh and the territory above described, unless there existed the ulterior purpose of acquiring Herat, thus putting the Russians in a position to influence the policy of the Ameer, and ultimately absorb his entire dominions.

The more this question is examined as to its political bearings in Afghanistan and Northern India, the more essential it appears for English supremacy and prestige in that quarter of the world to stop Russian aggression where it is, and if possible force its retreat back to Khiva at least.

"I Don't Want Relief, But Cure," is the exclamation of thousands suffering from catarrh. To all such we say: Catarrh can be cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It has been done in thousands of cases; why not in yours? Your danger is in delay. Enclose a stamp to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for pamphlet on this disease.

Dr. Laelian Tyler, son of President Tyler, called on the president last week.

An Important Arrest.
The arrest of a suspicious character upon his general appearance, movements or companionship, without waiting until he has robbed a traveler, fired a house or murdered a fellow-man, is an important function of a shrewd detective. Even more important is the arrest of a disease which, if not checked, will blight and destroy a human life. The frequent cough, loss of appetite, general languor or debility, pallid skin, and bodily aches and pains, announce the approach of pulmonary consumption, which is promptly arrested and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Sold by druggists.

David Stevenson, surveyor general for Nebraska and Iowa, has resigned that position.

Weak lungs, spitting of blood, consumption, and kindred affections, cured without physician. Address for treatise, with two stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The pope has selected M. Moran, archbishop of Sydney, for the Dublin archbishopric.

It is not understood why druggists keep in stock so many kinds of medicines for coughs, colds and consumption, when it is only necessary to keep Allen's Lung Balsam, that old, reliable remedy, which is a pure vegetable preparation, and perfectly harmless, as it contains no opium in any form. Sold everywhere.

At Roubaix, Department du Nord, in France, a menagerie was recently destroyed by fire, in which a number of the animals were roasted. Exasperated at what they believed to be the apathy of the police in preventing the spread of the flames, the infuriated citizens forced the miserable officers to eat parts of the cooked animals. There could be no worse torture to a Frenchman than to offend his stomach in such a barbarous manner, and none but a Frenchman would ever think of inflicting it. The result has exceeded the most diabolical desires of the perpetrators, for the policemen fell ill of a disease said to strongly resemble cholera, and it has since become epidemic. The whole story sounds more like Jules Verne than sober fact, but coming by cable it has at least the ear marks of authenticity.

Brought Home in a Wagon.
LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Mr. J. Helms, Vice President of the City Brewery, was brought home in a wagon, carried up stairs by two of his men and laid on the bed. He was suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism contracted in the ice vaults of the brewery. He refused to have a doctor, but dispatched a servant for a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, with the result that in one week he was entirely cured and able to return to his desk.

Referring to General Grant's illness, Senator Palmer, of Michigan, said to a friend: "I know of a remarkable case of holding on to life in Michigan a year or two ago. There was a clergyman at Detroit named Barnes. I was over at Grand Rapids on the cars, when he came rushing in just as the train was starting. I noticed that he was flushed and excited. He said to me that he had just received a telegraphic message that his wife was taken suddenly ill and dying. He had answered: 'I am coming, Mary; hold on till I get home.' All the way over to Detroit the clergyman sat in silence by himself. I think he was praying. His wife got the dispatch, and her attendants say it revived her. She held out till her husband arrived, and died shortly afterward in his arms.

A New Idea embraced in Ely's Cream Balm. Catarrh is cured by cleansing and healing, not by drying up. It is not a liquid or snuff, but is easily applied with the finger. Its effect is magical and a thorough treatment will cure the worst cases. Price 50 cents. At druggists 60 cents by mail. Ely Bros., Oswego, N. Y.

I have been afflicted with catarrh for 20 years. It had become chronic, and there was a constant dropping of mucous matter from the roof of my mouth. It extended to my throat, causing hoarseness and great difficulty in speaking, indeed for years I was not able to speak more than thirty minutes, and often this with great difficulty. I also, to a great extent, lost the sense of hearing in the left ear, and of taste. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm I have received more relief than from all other remedies beside. All dropping of mucous has ceased and my voice and hearing are greatly improved.—Jas. W. Davidson, Attorney at Law, Monmouth, Warren Co., Ill.

In the fall of 1883 I had a valuable horse taken with the pinkeye, resulting in blood blindness. After nine months of doctoring with all the remedies to be found in horse books, I despaired of a cure. His right hind leg was as large as a man's body, and had on it over forty curing bottles. He was a most pitiable looking object. At last I thought of Swift's Specific, and commenced to use it. I used fifteen bottles. In August last all symptoms of the disease disappeared. There have been no signs of a return, and the horse has done a mile's work on my farm ever since.
