Our Telephone Girl.

There had been a row among the members of one of the prominent churches of the city, and the devotees to that particular faith were excited to a wonderful high pitch by the occurrence. The telephone girl, who had been annoyed by the calls of members who were not there, all day long, was weary of the racket. She was getting desperate when 163 called, and replying, she found that the caller was a reporter who had made her life a burden by reporting her to the management for her numerous pranks.

"Hello!" she angrily replied. "What do you want?"

"I want Deacon Hawley—No. 312."

"All right. Here is the deacon."

"Hello! Is this Deacon Hawley?"

"Yes, sir. What do you want?"

"I want to get the facts in regard to that church racket last evening."

"All right, young man. You shall have them from A to Z."

At this critical moment the hard-hearted girl switched on a man who was reporting a saloon row to the opposition paper, and when the daily Outcry came to its readers that evening, it contained the following startling item:

"THE CHURCH SQUABBLE.—Our readers are of course anxious to know the facts in regard to the row in the Holiness Church last evening. The following is the account given by one of the deacons who was an eye witness:

"It appears that all present had been drinking rather freely, and became noisy, when the chief bottle-washer, (suppose to mean the pastor), attempted to quiet the disturbance. Some one farther back accused him of having been too intimate with the Widow Bangs, when he drew a revolver and fired, lodging the ball in the leg of a woman who was just coming in. This enraged the crowd, and for a few minutes the scene beggared description. Knives were flourished, whisky bottles were thrown, horrible curses broke the peace of the neighborhood, and a general row ensued. When the police restored quiet it was found that every man present was more or less hurt, and the woman's wound is thought to be serious, if not dangerous. Our informant says the place is a perfect hot-bed of vice, and the resort of the most depraved men and women, and adds that the orgies that have been going on there Saturday nights and Sundays, are a disgrace to our civilization and a stigma upon the fair name of our city. It is generally understood in police circles that the place will be abated as a nuisance by order of the council."

The Outcry now has forty libel suits on it hands, the reporter has been dismissed, the deacon has come out in a card in the other papers saying that he never told the reporter of the Outcry anything of the kind, and all this time the telephone girl looks as innocent as if she had not been revenged.—The Sun.

He Knew His Father.

"Now, Johnnie," said his teacher, "if your father borrows $100, and promises to pay $10 a week, how much will he owe in seven weeks?"

"One hundred dollars," said Johnnie.

"I'm afraid you don't know your lesson very well," remarked the teacher.

"I may not know my lesson very well," Johnnie frankly acknowledged, "but I know my father.—Flushing Times.
