The soap man made about $100 out of his soap bank, before he closed his doors.

Perhaps no men better adapted to the mercantile business than Bowden & Buck, live in Dakota. If their neighbors cuts prices, straightway there is music in the air, and everything tumbles to figures never heard of before since the "wah."

Ten pounds of good roasted coffee for the mighty dollar. Bowden & Buck.

Mrs. C. T. Whidden arrived in Cooperstown, last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. W. have rooms at Mrs. Zimmerman's.

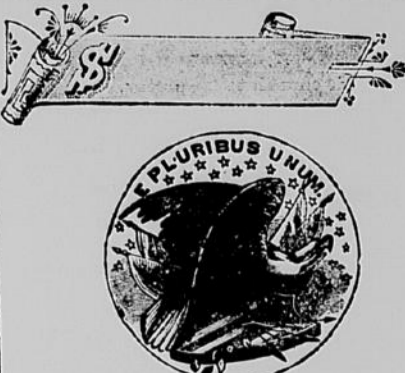

Peter Mathison was in town, Wednesday. He went to Chicago expecting to have an operation performed, but, as he expresses it, he was too good a man to cut up yet, and not quite good enough to be easily cured. He returned, however, much improved in health.

The incrustation on the inside of the court house boiler is an eighth of an inch thick, scales off in leaves like pieces of broken pottery, and is as hard as limestone. A man with a good coating like that on his inside, could boil water in his stomach without interfering with his digestion.

John Smith was the man so badly cut in the fight at the Dakota house. We expect at least a hundred libel suits after this item, and have already had that amount of apologies printed for the benefit of the various J. S's.

A young man named Allen was this week charged with "assault with a deadly weapon," before Justice Melgard. It seems that he and a companion had a fight at the Dakota house, and during the melee Allen used a pen knife, until the other fellow's face looked like a war map of Europe, the nose being made sort of reversible like. Allen waived examination.

We have not been in a dozen kinds of business forty years, but in one business just long enough to discover that it pays to give each customer the full value for his money. Call in and see us. BOWDEN & BUCK.

Mr. D. Sinclair favors us with his subscription, and the requisite $2.

Bowden & Buck are always ready to show goods.

Andrew Johnson, the popular merchant, is still limping around with the sciatica.

Alfred Gale is a candidate for the Courner, and the Farm, Stock & Home, the best agricultural paper that comes to this office.

Read the quiet remarks of Bowden & Buck, the young philanthropists, who have instituted the reform in prices in Cooperstown. A reasonable merchant is the salvation of the hardworking farmer. One week of grace in which to get your winter supplies.

The Rev. Westberg will preach in the Congregational church Sunday evening, in English.

Mr. James Maclean, the hardware man of Minneapolis, is visiting A. I. Bowden and C. C. Buck.

H. G. Pickett is now exhibiting, on one of his roadsters, a magnificent single harness, from the shop of J. H. McDermott.

W. H. Shoots, Minneapolis; C. C. Corby, Omaha, were the alleged names of the soap bankers.

Dazey was visited, Wednesday, by another gang of prize package sharks, who took thirty dollars out of the town.

The nice, generous soap man struck the town Wednesday. Some of the boys, in the early part of the game, gave $5 for a 5 cent cake of soap, and found from $5 to $10 in the package; but alas, it was a cold day for the majority of purchasers. The s. m. turned over a new leaf after a while, and the suckers got just enough soap to slip up on, and slide home. These fakirs seem to have no trouble in finding gulls, who expect to something for nothing.

There is nothing more pathetic in fiction than the home coming of John McCulloch, the actor. Who knew that he had a wife? During his hey day, she was forgotten. Imbecile, and dead to his boon companions and mistresses, she receives the lover of her youth, to close his eyes.
