Around Town.

About 2:30 a. m., last Tuesday, the "Sawed-off" got in front of Stevens & Engers, where a light was burning, and commenced to squeal like a pig for shelter. He howled, fire! murder! for half an hour, until a deluded man on Lenham avenue shook off the coils of Morpheus, hastily dressed, and went out into the darkness to see what in the dickens was the trouble.

"What in the name of Julius Caesar are you making all this racket about?"

"Say, Cap. I want to get in some where and get a drink."

"Merciful Heavens! and it is for this you are raising hades. You want to call 'em all up, I suppose. Well, you will go to the cooler in the morning."

"It's cool enough out here, Cap'in. It's my opinion that I'm pretty near froze to death. You see I like plenty of fresh air, and I've been sleepin' out doors for a month or so; but this settles it. I'll have to engage rooms at the Palace agin. Will you oblige me by calling them people up. I want to get in."

"You better go over to the hotel"

"I can't walk so far."

"Well, stay where you are."

Steve came on the scene at this point, leading Anton by the hand. The sawed off crept over to the hotel, the dog howling and barking after him as if she would tear him to pieces; and Stevens, Enger and the other victim, which was the editor, went back to bed bewailing the intemperance of the times. This man, with his legs cut off, has earned, with his striking machine, probably $5 per day since his sojourn here, every cent of which has gone for rum.

Louis Anderson, Romness, a substantial farmer, will receive the COURIER for the next twelve moons.

We had a pleasant call from Miss Emma Henry and Miss Mary Bauer, Tuesday.

Mass Meeting.

All farmers are invited to meet at the Court house, Saturday, Dec. 12, 1885, at 2 p. m., to organize a mutual hail and fire insurance company. Farmers have been paying 50 cents per acre for hail insurance to irresponsible companies, whereas perfect satisfaction can be had for a much less sum by mutual effort.
 MANY CITIZENS.

FEED MILL.

The subscriber is now putting in a first-class feed mill, on section 22, tp. 145, r. 48, two miles north of Gallatin, where he will be ready December 1st to accommodate the farming public. Charges, 6 cts, per bushel; reduction on large orders. Call and see me.
