FUNERAL OF THE ANARCHISTS.

A Large but Orderly Crowd Follows Their Remains to the Tomb—The Parade Viewed by 100,000 Persons As It Marches Through Chicago's Streets—Fielden and Schwab Taken to Jail.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—A great concourse of people followed the remains of August Spies, Adolph Fischer, Albert R. Parsons, George Engel and Louis Lingg, the dead Anarchists in their funeral procession yesterday. The day was warm, and early in the morning crowds wended their way to Milwaukee avenue, down which thoroughfare the parade passed. Leaving Milwaukee avenue, it proceeded south on Desplaines street to Lake, within half a block of the fatal spot at which the Haymarket bomb was exploded, thence east on LaSalle street to Fifth avenue and south to Polk street, where the Wisconsin Central train was taken to Waldheim Cemetery.

Although there were probably 100,000 persons massed along the line of the procession there was no disorder. The entire ceremony, from the homes to the cemetery, was conducted with as much quiet as possible in so vast a throng. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

The people began to gather at the Spies' residence as early as 7 o'clock in the morning. Shortly after that hour the public were admitted to the house. A continual stream of men and women viewed the remains until a little after 11 o'clock, when preparations were begun for the transfer of the body to its last resting-place. The grief of the stricken mother at this time was poignant and most excessive. Her lamentations were woful in the extreme. Miss Van Zandt, Spies' proxy wife, also deeply mourned the loss of him whom she undoubtedly loved. The sisters and brothers of the dead Anarchist wept constantly. Captain Black, the devoted advocate of the Anarchists in and out of court, his wife and several neighbors, did all in their power to assuage the grief of the afflicted ones. At a few minutes past noon it was announced that the hearse had arrived. The casket was placed in the hearse, and escorted by members of the Aurora Turn Verein and the Bakers' Union to the number of about 500 proceeded down Milwaukee avenue to Paulina, where a halt was made while the hearse containing the body of Fischer followed by carriages containing the mourners came into line.

At Fischer's late home had occurred during the morning scenes similar to those enacted at the Spies' residence. Hundreds viewed the remains during the morning. Mrs. Fischer wept continually, and the poor woman's face was pallid and haggard. At this point the German Typographical Union No. 9, 100 members of the Central Labor Union and a body of women, 250 strong, members of the Fortschritt Aid Society, joined in the procession.

The march was again begun, the next stop being made at the home of Mrs. Parsons, where the hearse containing the remains of her dead husband wheeled into line. Here had congregated an immense throng. The floral offerings here, as well as at all the other places, were numerous and of the most elegant designs. Mrs. Parsons' grief was most terrible in its intensity. As the procession moved away to the slow and swaying measure of a dirge many of the women in the throng wept.

The silver plate on the casket containing Parsons' remains bore the following inscription:

ALBERT R. PARSONS, Age 39. MURDERED BY THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, November 11, 1887.

It was a great crowd which gathered about the former residence of George Engel, at 286 Milwaukee avenue. Inside the dingy little store were the bodies of the two dead Anarchists, Louis Lingg and George Engel. The crush was terrific. Street traffic was completely blocked. Bands in front of the house played mournful dirges, and so solemn was the scene that hundreds burst into tears.

At the intersection of West Indiana street, Milwaukee avenue and Halsted street the procession was stopped for nearly five minutes before the crowd could be separated sufficiently to admit of the passage of those on foot and in carriages. The procession then proceeded along the route given above to the depot. The utmost decorum was preserved throughout. No banners of any kind were carried, the only flags displayed being two of red silk covering a portion of the caskets containing the bodies of Engel and Lingg. The several bands scattered through the procession played funeral dirges from time to time, and the crowds frequently lifted their hats as the hearse containing the dead bodies passed by. In the crowds that congregated on Milwaukee avenue frequent imprecations were heard directed against Inspector Bonfield, States Attorney Grinnell and Judge Gary, but no threats were heard, the talk being more in the nature of criticism for the parts they had taken in the trial. There were over 6,000 in line.

There were thirty-five cars furnished to convey the people to Waldheim Cemetery, twelve miles west on the Wisconsin Central railway. It was nearly 4 o'clock when the cemetery was reached. Here 2,000 people were already assembled.

A small platform had been erected just at one side of the vault door. Upon this the female relatives of the dead men took their stand. The coffins came one by one, and were placed before the vault on supports. Then the flowers were heaped up in profusion on the caskets. All heads were uncovered when the coffins were borne in.

Captain Black delivered a brief oration. Several others made short addresses and the assemblage quickly and quietly wended its way to the trains. The members of the committee of arrangements, assisted by the superintendent of the cemetery, conveyed the coffins into the vault, with the flowers and crimson flags, and the iron gate was closed and locked. At 5:30 o'clock the last men left the vault and hurried silently down the dark driveway to the great cemetery gate. One after the other the trains, weighted down with weary men and women, steamed away toward the great city, and the Anarchist funeral was done.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab were taken to Joliet at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon for a life imprisonment, in conformity to the commutation of sentence granted by the Governor Thursday.

BATTLE OF THE BALLOTS.

The Elections on Tuesday—Fred Grant Beaten by 16,000 Majority in New York—Foraker's Victory in Ohio—Larrabee Successful in Iowa—Other States.

COOK'S VICTORY IN NEW YORK. ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Approximately complete returns to the Argus from all the counties in the State, give Cook (Dem.), for Secretary of State, 10,668 plurality over Grant (Rep.), a net Democratic loss of 468 compared with Hill's plurality in 1886.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The returns from Tuesday's election in New York, so far as received, show that the Democrats have carried the State by 20,000 majority. The Republicans will probably retain control of the Legislature, but further returns may cut down their majority in that body. In New York City Colonel Fellows defeated Delaney Nicholl for State's attorney by 25,000.

THE Tribune says: "The third party—Prohibitionists—would seem to have made decided gains. Last year they gave their nominees for the Appeal's bench 36,414 votes. This year their vote may reach 45,000. The labor vote for the entire State is estimated at 70,000, of which 20,000 was polled outside of New York and Kings counties.

The returns from the State are not yet complete, but enough have been received to indicate that the Senate and Assembly remain Republican. The present Senate stands as follows: Republicans, 20; Democrats, 12. The next Senate, according to present figures, which are not complete, stand as follows: Republicans, 19; Democrats, 13. The present Assembly stands as follows: Republicans, 74; Democrats, 54. The indications are that this majority of 20 will be somewhat reduced.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Henry George says the United Labor party has met its Bull Run, not its Waterloo. Victory in the end is certain. The result proves that there are 35,000 men in New York who can not be seduced away from principle.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The general opinion is that the success of the Democrats in New York means renomination for Cleveland, and that he will carry that State.

FORAKER'S PLURALITY 30,000. CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—The latest returns from the city and county precincts show Foraker's election by over 8,000. He ran almost even with his ticket Powell (Dem.) ran ahead of his ticket, showing the effects of the arrangement by which Sets was slaughtered by his Union Labor friends. The balance of the Union Labor polled a heavy vote—almost equal to the Democrats. The Prohibitionist vote was very light. The fullest returns received indicate a plurality of 26,000 for Foraker. The legislature probably stands: Senate, 24 Republican; House, 67 Republican.

IN CHICAGO. CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The result of the county election yesterday was a complete Republican triumph, all the candidates on the Republican ticket, including every candidate for county commissioner, being elected. Judge Gary's majority in the county for re-election as judge of the superior court is over 50,000. Judge Longenecker's majority for State's Attorney is about 16,000. H. C. Senne's majority for chairman of the Board of County Commissioners is about 18,000.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—One of the questions voted upon Tuesday was the proposed annexation to the city of about two-thirds of Hyde Park, the south half of Lake View, all of Brighton, a strip from the eastern part of Cicero and Section 25 of Jefferson. Chicago practically had her own way, as she generally does, and her population has been increased in a single day something like 65,000. Hyde Park, Brighton, Cicero and Jefferson voted to come in, and Lake View and Lake decided to stay out.

As regards the propositions, aside from candidates for office, that were voted on by the people of this county, it is certain that the county-bound question has carried. The fate of the Jury Commission law is as yet undecided, the vote upon the question of its adoption or rejection being very close.

DEB MOYNE, Ia., Nov. 10.—Returns from 750 of the 1,900 precincts of the State, show a net Democratic gain of 755. The same vote maintained in the rest of the State will give Larrabee (Rep.), for Governor 12,000 plurality over Anderson (Dem.), and a majority of 3,000 over all the vote of Cain (U. L.) for Governor, between 9,000 and 10,000. Farnham (Pro.) for Governor will fall under 200 in the State. The Legislature will be Republican by about 45 on joint ballot.

Complete returns from fifty-three of the ninety-nine counties in the State give Larrabee (Rep.) 87,569; Anderson (Dem.), 77,442; Cain (Labor), 6,124; Farnham (Pro.), 21. Larrabee's plurality over Anderson, 10,127, and his majority over all, 3,982. These same counties last year gave Jackson (Rep.) 92,097; Sells (Dem.), 72,036.

A SWEEPING REPUBLICAN VICTORY. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Estimates from all counties in Pennsylvania show a plurality of between 33,000 and 34,000 for Hart (Rep.), for State Treasurer, a Democratic gain of about 10,000 as compared with the vote for State Treasurer in 1885 and that for Governor last year.

MASSACHUSETTS. BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Returns from all towns and cities in the State give for Governor: Ames (Rep.), 135,912; Lovering (Dem.), 118,311; Earle (Pro.), 10,697; Marks (Labor), 848.

This makes Ames' plurality 17,611, against 2,473 last year. This is a clear majority of 6,556, against 923 in 1886.

A VOTE FOR DIVISION. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 10.—The Dakota election returns are very meager, but the figures received show a majority of about 25,000 for division. Division has carried by a good majority, the principal opposition coming from North Dakota. In South Dakota the vote in favor of division was very large. Local option seems to have gained the day in most of the counties.

NEW JERSEY. TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 10.—Corrected returns yesterday indicate that the next Legislature will stand: Senate—Republicans, 12; Democrats, 9. House—Republicans, 37; Democrats, 23.

MARYLAND. BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 10.—As was anticipated, the Democrats carried nearly every thing in the State, though complete figures can not yet be given. Reliable estimates from throughout the State show that Jackson's majority for Governor will be about 9,000, the smallest received by any Governor in twenty years.
